

Mai 68: Views from the Street

April 5-30, 2018

The Sally McDonnell
Barksdale Honors
College Great Room

University of Mississippi

April 5 from 5-7pm:
Opening reception

April 17 and 19
@ 7-8:30 pm in Lamar 126:
Screening
of the documentary
“Mai 68, un étrange printemps”
(The Odd Spring of May 68)
by Dominique Beaux
in two parts.

This May marks the 50th anniversary of what is known in France as “Mai 68.” Students, workers, and artists rose up against the rigidity of the university system and oppressive bourgeois social norms, threatening to overthrow de Gaulle’s administration and bringing the country to a standstill. “Mai 68: Views from the Street” brings to The University of Mississippi 43 photographs by the renowned French photographer Philippe Gras (1942-2007). Two documentary screenings will provide historical context.

Free admission for all events.

MAI 68

VIEWS FROM THE STREET

Mai 68: Views from the Street

April 5-30, 2018

The Sally McDonnell Barksdale Honors College Great Room, University of Mississippi

April 5 from 5-7pm: Opening reception

April 17 and 19 @ 7-8:30 pm in Lamar 126:
Screening of the documentary “Mai 68, un étrange printemps” (The Odd Spring of May 68) by Dominique Beaux in two parts.

Free admission for all events.

*This May marks the 50th anniversary of what is known in France as “Mai 68.” Students, workers, and artists rose up against the rigidity of the university system and oppressive bourgeois social norms, threatening to overthrow de Gaulle’s administration and bringing the country to a standstill. “Mai 68: Views from the Street” brings to The University of Mississippi 43 photographs by the renowned French photographer Philippe Gras (1942-2007). Two documentary screenings will provide historical context. We hope you can join us.

Special thanks to our sponsors:

Sally McDonnell Barksdale Honors College

Department of Modern Languages

Croft Institute of International Studies

Arch Dalrymple III Department of History

Meek School of Journalism and New Media

Department of Political Science

Part of an initiative made possible by the French Consulate of Atlanta